BIBLE DAY.

At the Baptist Church, Sunday evening, was held what is called the "Children's Bible Day" which was indeed interesting. The exercises opened with an organ voluntary, by Mrs. L. A. Williams followed by scripture selections and readings. "Thank God for the Bible," was rendered with happy affect by Miss Maud Harrell. The recitation—"Ancient Manuscripts," by Miss Gertrude Vennings, was admirable and elicited pleasing comment from all present. "The Hours of the Venerable Bede," by the rising young orator of the school, W. S. Pendleton, was listened to with wrapped attention. "Delight in the Bible," by Miss Blanch Harrell, was replete with sound advice and delivered with much pathos. "The Trial of Wyckliffe," by John Elliott was an admirable selection. "The Looms of God," by Miss V. Boush, in keeping with all the rest, was admirable. Miss Maggie Fletcher, Miss Pattie Elliott and Miss Annie Spruill did their part in a manner decidedly creditable. The "Gesture Recitation," by Miss R. Mitchell, was novel in its character and most pleasing in its effect. She is an artist in embryo. "Wonder and Praise," by Miss Eva Spruill, and "Thy Word, O Lord," by Miss Bula Murden were excellently rendered. Following, and in the line of the published programme, came the address of the minister, Rev. F. M. Satterwhite, on "The Purpose of Bible Day." It is needless to say it was good, for from such a source nought else could be expected. After the customary offerings, an appropriate recitation, "Over against the Treasurer," was delivered by Miss Willie Elliott, with telling effect. The entire programme was excellently observed and scholars and teachers manifested a talent and zeal worthy the object of the entertainment. The music was in all respects grand. With Mrs. Williams at the organ and Prof. Williams with baton (?) the children are made to attain even to perfection in the charming art which is the flow of soul.
